What is Cryptocurrency?

Cryptocurrency is a digital payment system that doesn't rely on banks to verify transactions. It's a peer-to-peer system that can enable anyone anywhere to send and receive payments. Instead of being physical money carried around and exchanged in the real world, cryptocurrency payments exist purely as digital entries to an online database describing specific transactions. When you transfer cryptocurrency funds, the transactions are recorded in a public ledger. Cryptocurrency is stored in digital wallets.

Transaction Process

Cryptocurrency transactions occur through electronic messages that are sent to the entire network with instructions about the transaction. The instructions include information such as the electronic addresses of the parties involved, the quantity of currency to be traded, and a time stamp.

Benefits of Cryptocurrency

Lower Transaction Fees

Transaction fees are typically calculated based on a percentage of your transaction amount or a flat fee per transaction and very low.

Faster Transaction Times

Transaction speed is one of the prime factors in Blockchains. Cryptocurrency having higher transaction speed results in the most efficient cryptocurrency.

Privacy and Security

One of the most significant benefits of Blockchain technology is its security. The decentralized nature of Blockchain means that there is no single point of failure, making it highly resistant to hacking and cyber-attacks

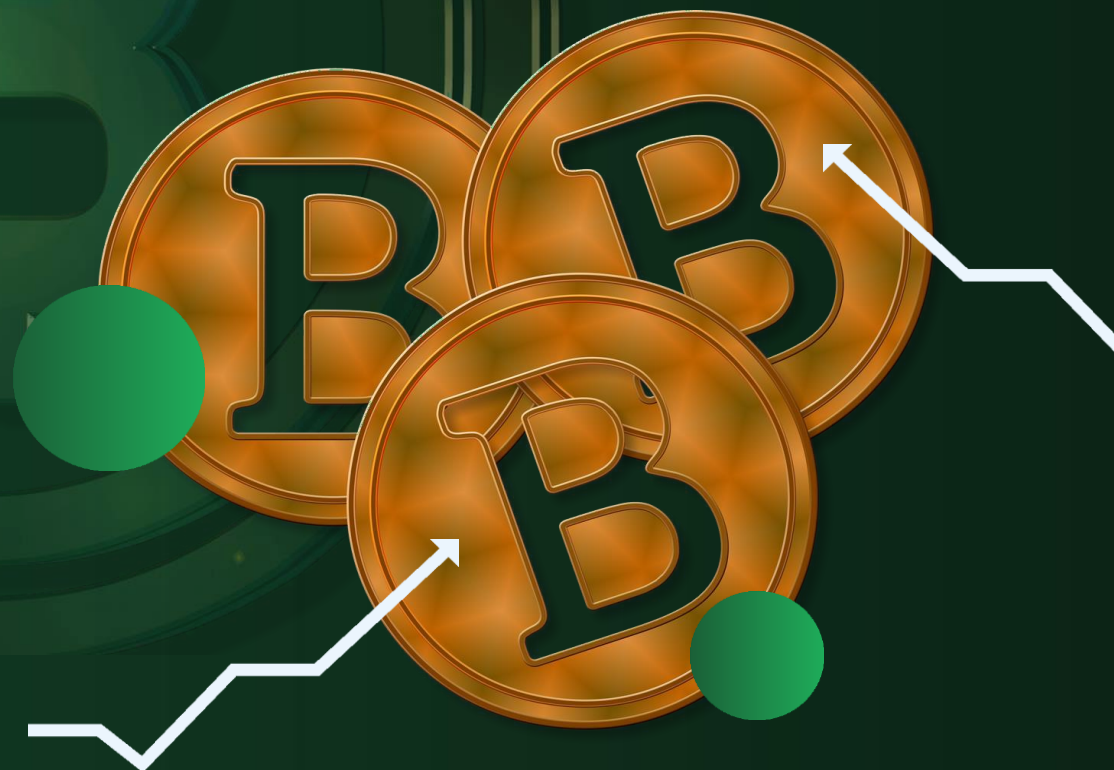

Future of Cryptocurrency

Analysts estimate that the global cryptocurrency market will more than triple by 2030. This all leads to one big trend. Cryptocurrency, once only understood among a relatively fringe community of anti-establishment investors, is now becoming a household name – and quickly.
